Course Description:

This course is intended to acquaint students with the role and practice of state governments within the United States.

State governments exist in a variety of forms. Consequently, in this course we will examine the various types and structures of state governments. Students will also address the fundamental principles, generalizations, and current theories about state governments.

The history and development of state governments will be addressed; the proper role and authority of state officials will be examined; the accountability of state government to citizens will be considered; the importance of media and communication and information shared between state governments and citizens will be evaluated. The Constitutional and legal authority of state governments will also be analyzed.

Course Structure:

Lecture/discussion; multiple choice and essay exams; a written project.

Course Objectives:

- Students will gain factual knowledge (terminology), classifications, methods, trends) about state government.

- Students will learn fundamental principles, generalizations, and theories about state government.
- Students will learn to analyze and critically evaluate ideas, arguments, and points of view.

Required Textbooks:

Gray and Hanson, Politics in the American States: A Comparative Analysis, CQ Press, 2007.

Attendance Policy:

Attendance requirements are compatible with Academic Policy Statement 800401. Students should review that policy statement for a more detailed explanation of attendance policy.

Exams and Grading Plan:

There will be three examinations. Each exam will be worth 25% of the grade in the course. The tests will be a combination of multiple choice and essay. Cumulatively, these three tests will equal 75% of the grade in the course. Make up exams are the responsibility of the student to call attention and see that unfinished work is completed before the end of the semester.

Grades will be precisely and specifically calculated and assigned according to traditional grading scales and procedures using letter and numerical grades. A traditional ten point breakdown of grades from A to F will be followed.

Academic Honesty:

Academic dishonesty policies for this class are compatible with Academic policy Statement 810213. Students with any questions should consult that statement for more details.

ADA:

Policies for this class are compatible with the Americans for Disabilities Act, and students with any questions should work with the Professor to alleviate any difficulties.

Religious Holidays:

Religious Holidays are respected.

Instructor Evaluations:

Students will be asked to complete course/instructor evaluation forms toward the end of the semester.

Written Assignments:

Each student will be required to develop an informative journal devoted to the "politics" and government of one of the fifty states. The subject of the journal will be selected randomly at the first class meeting. The reading journal will consist of several parts. Each part will be graded separately and will be cumulatively considered at the end of the semester. Journal entries will be turned in 3 times during the semester. Each of the 3 entries will be worth 1/3 of the grade on the assignment. The journal as a whole will be worth 25% of the grade in the course.

Required Supplies:

No supplies are needed for this course unless we are talking about notebooks, pens and pencils, scantrons, etc.
