

Home » Departments » Leadership Initiatives » Center for Leadership and Service

Center for Leadership and Service

Center for Leadership and Service

- Home
- About CLS
- Calendar of Events
- Giving Opportunities
- Contact Us
- Leadership Initiatives Home

Leadership Programs

- Conference Experience
- Covey's 7 Habits of Highly Effective College Students
- Discover Your Strengths
- Emerging Leaders Program
- Leadership Library
- Leadership Speakers Bureau
- Learning to Lead Workshops
- Outdoor Leadership Challenge
- Student Employee Leadership Institute
- Student Legislative Trip

Service Programs

Welcome Week: Bearkat Service Project Registration Form

Leadership . . . is it in you?

Contrary to popular belief, great leaders are made, not born. Within each of us beats the heart of a leader, we just need the right environment and support for it to emerge. Why develop your leadership capabilities? Because the world you live in today and especially the one you will inhabit tomorrow, will require you to assume a leadership role regardless of official titles or positions. Think of it like this...a leader is someone who works effectively with others to achieve a shared vision to make positive social change for the common good...on campus, in the workplace, in the community, and in the world.

Where are you on the path to leadership? The Center for Leadership and Service (CLS) can help you in the journey with programs that expose you to new ideas and experiences designed to develop your leadership effectiveness. Through leadership education, personal development, skills training, and service, you can become an active citizen leader.

Discover how you can begin your leadership development at SHSU. We can suggest a path that will allow you to maximize the programs offered by CLS and achieve your goals as an effective person, student leader, and member of society.

