

NASP-Approved

Graduate Programs in School Psychology

As part of its efforts to promote high-quality school psychology training and services, the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP) reviews specialist and doctoral programs in school psychology at colleges and universities. For those programs that submit documentation for a NASP review by trained national reviewers, the NASP Program Approval Board awards “NASP-approved” status for those programs that provide evidence of consistency with the NASP Standards for Training and Field Placement Programs in School Psychology.

Two types of NASP approval are awarded to school psychology graduate programs. “Full approval” indicates the NASP review process found that a school psychology program demonstrated consistency with NASP standards. Programs typically are awarded full approval for a 5-7 year period and, at the end of the period, must again submit documentation for NASP review and possible continued approval. “Conditional approval” indicates the NASP review process found that a school psychology program demonstrated general consistency with key NASP standards, but must submit additional documentation, usually within 18 months, to be evaluated for possible continuation of NASP approval.

NASP is a constituent member of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) and conducts program reviews as a part of the NCATE unit or institutional accreditation process. In order to provide all programs with access to the NASP review process and potentially to national approval, NASP also conducts reviews independent of NCATE. NCATE accredits units (e.g., Schools of Education), not programs, but does provide “national recognition” status to NASP-approved programs located in units accredited by NCATE.

For more information regarding NASP program approval and the submission process to be used by graduate programs, please see the NASP website (http://www.nasponline.org/standards/approvedtraining/training\_program.aspx) or contact Dr. Patti Harrison, Chair of the NASP Program Approval Board, phone: 205-348-7583, e-mail: nasppab@bamaed.ua.edu.

A graduate of a NASP-approved program automatically is eligible to apply to become a nationally certified school psychologist (NCSP), pending documentation of an internship consistent with NASP standards and attainment of a passing score on the national school psychology (PRAXIS II) examination administered by Educational Testing Service. (Note: Graduates of school psychology programs that do not hold NASP-approved status also are eligible to apply for the NCSP, but must submit documentation that their graduate education is consistent with NCSP requirements). More information about the NCSP is located at <http://www.nasponline.org/certification/index.aspx>. For information regarding NCSP applications for individuals, please contact Dr. Joan Bohmann, Director, NASP Professional Standards and Continuing Professional Development, phone: 301-657-0270, e-mail: jbohmann@naspweb.org.

The following school psychology programs had been approved by the National Association of School Psychologists as of January 1, 2008. The approved programs are listed alphabetically by state, then alphabetically by program within states. The following key should be used in examining this list.

Key: Program Level, SL=Specialist Level and DL=Doctoral Level

The approval status (full or conditional) of the program as of the effective date of this list and the year in which the program's initial NASP approval became or will become effective also are indicated after program level.
