The Global Center for Journalism and Democracy

Our goal is simple: to get credible and accurate information to the public. Armed with knowledge, citizens make better decisions and society is better served.

Our mission is threefold: GCJD trains journalists to make them smarter about issues they cover, works with civil society groups and others to increase transparency, and works to raise awareness about important social issues.

We'd be honored to have you join our contributors and distinguished partners to do this important work.

Contribute to GCJD.
