Text: Teaching Brass a resource manual, Bailey, Miles, Siebert, Stanley, and Stein.

Goals and Objectives: The goal of this class is for students to acquire the tools to teach brass at various levels as is generally expected of competent public school instrumental music educators. Students will develop basic performing skills on at least two of the following brass instruments: trumpet, horn, trombone, euphonium or baritone, and tuba. The student will be able to demonstrate basic embouchures, breathing skills, articulations, proper hand and body positions, with facility. The course will also include historical background of the instruments, acoustics and tuning, overtone series, basic and alternate fingerings for each instrument, transposition, brass methods, brass literature solo and chamber music, basic source materials, care and repair of instruments, the elements of music (melody, harmony, rhythm, timber and form), and educational concepts of what to teach, when and how.

Grades: Your grade will be awarded on point system. There will be two performance skills and tests and several other activities to attain points towards a grade. In addition all students will be assessed on individual daily preparation/participation (15 %), assignments and attendance.

Exam #1: October 10 and 12 Exam #2: December 3 and 5

Attendance: Three absences may be taken without penalty. Any beyond that will be penalized as a four-point penalty against the final grade average for each additional absence. University business requires an excuse from the appropriate university official before the event. All other absences will have to be approved as excused through the office of Student Life.

Class Procedures: Each class will consist of lecture as well as performance.

1. The student will be able to demonstrate knowledge of:
 - a. Intonation tendencies and solutions to problems.
 - b. Teaching techniques appropriate to various levels of proficiency.
 - c. Identify potentially successful students for each brass instrument.
 - d. Identify performance problems and possible solutions.

2. The student will have an understanding of junior high school level performance skill in:
 - a. Producing a characteristic tone
 - b. Appropriate use of standard fingering, and knowledge of alternate fingerings
 - c. Proper execution of various styles of articulation
 - d. Major scales through 3 sharps and flats
 - e. Chromatic scale
 - f. Tuning the instrument
