

MSL 430 Sect 1, CID 6151/1749:

This course in Military Science does not have a traditional syllabus, but the following is a description of the course.

This is a 3 credit class arranged with the PMS. This course is applied to the MSL Minor upon completion. This military project is completed on an individual basis and performance is graded through oral presentations, papers, and research. Military Science topics include: Developing a military library of field manuals and technical support, develop scenarios/operation orders for execution of the Field Leadership Course, Plan, coordinate, and execute the an awards ceremony, Design and implement the squad training exercise at Gibbs, or be a project officer for an event for the military science department.