

POL 285 (sec 19): American Public Policy
Spring 2008
3 credit hours
Tuesday 6:00-8:50 p.m. AB1 317

Masoud Kazemzadeh, Ph.D.

Office: AB1, 319F

Phone: (936) 294-1462

E-mail: mxk002@shsu.edu

Office Hours:

Tues 4:50-5:10 p.m.

Wed 4:00-6:00 p.m.

Thur 3:00-3:25 and 4:50-6:00 p.m.
and by appointment

Course Description and Goals

This is an introductory course on American public policy. I have chosen foreign policy as the focus for this course. We will study both the process and the substance of American foreign policy.

What was the Cold War all about? What should we expect in the post-Cold War era? Do we live in a unipolar or a multipolar world since the collapse of USSR? What is the impact of September 11 on the international system and U.S. foreign policy? What is the Bush Doctrine? Are we at the beginning of the "Age of Terror"? Have we entered "the clash of civilizations" between Islam and the West as Harvard scholar Samuel Huntington theorized? These are some of the questions that we should be able to answer by the end of the semester.

Studying American foreign policy is not only exciting, but is essential to an understanding of everyday life in the 21st century. Understanding the world and American attempts to deal with it is a matter of life and death. We begin with briefly discussing the main countries around the world. We will, then, study the competing paradigms of American politics, the lenses through which scholars view and analyze the actual reality. We will proceed to study, in some depth, the policy making process. After that, we turn to the making of American foreign policy. After a brief historical overview of world events in the past century, we will discuss various concepts and theories such as Realism, Idealism, constructivism, feminism, and Marxism. Finally, we will discuss several cases of American foreign policy in great detail. Throughout the course we will distinguish between description (what happened), analysis (why did it happen), and normative judgement (was it good or bad).

There is a substantial amount of materials to be read, and it is imperative for each student's success that he or she develops a regular study schedule that permits keeping up with the assignment at all times. If you wait until the exams to begin reading, you would probably fail the class.

You are expected to watch national and international news such as CNN at least five times a week. I highly recommend PBS's News Hour with Jim Lehrer on channel 8 Monday through Friday between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. If you do not have access to television, you should read The

New York Times or the daily news from the Internet sites <http://www.cnn.com> or <http://www.nytimes.com>.

Course Objectives

- (1) Students will learn basic information about 45 major countries around the world;
- (2) Students will learn major concepts in the field of political science; and
- (3) Students will learn competing paradigms and theories in American politics, international relations and foreign policy.

Attendance Policy

Class attendance is mandatory. It is imperative that you attend all the lectures. If you are going to miss a class, ask a friend to tape the lecture for you. Rolls will be taken periodically. Anyone with 3 absences (that are not excused) will receive an "F." Permission to take a make-up exam will rarely be given and only a dire situation will warrant one. Make-up exams will be harder than the one given to the entire class.

Religious Holy Day or Days

A student who is absent from class for the observance of a religious holy day or days or to travel for the purpose of religious observance may take an examination or complete an assignment within a reasonable time. The student should inform me before or immediately after the absence in writing (e-mail preferred). The student will have 15 days to complete the assignment or take the exam. If you are to miss the lecture, have a fellow student tape the lecture for you. Absence due to religious holy day does not count towards the 3 absences.

Academic Dishonesty

Anyone caught cheating will receive "F" for the course and will be referred to the Associate Vice President for Student Services for further disciplinary action.

Attention Students with Disabilities

It is the policy of SHSU that individuals that otherwise qualified shall not be excluded, solely by reason of their disability, from participation in any academic program of the university. Further, they shall not be denied the benefits of these programs, nor shall they be subject to discrimination. Students with disabilities that might affect their academic performance are expected to visit with the Office of Services for Students with Disabilities located in the Counseling Center. They should then make arrangements with me so that appropriate strategies can be considered and helpful procedures can be developed to ensure that participation and achievement opportunities are not impaired.

Visitors in the classroom

If the visitor is not a registered student, it is at the instructor's discretion whether or not the visitor will be allowed to remain in the classroom. As a rule, I have no objections to "tourists" if extra seats are available.

Instructor evaluations

Students will be asked to complete a course/instructor evaluation form towards the end of the semester.

Classroom rules of conduct

The Code of Student Conduct and Discipline is found at the following link:

<http://www.shsu.edu/students/guide/dean/codeofconduct.html>

Course Grade will be Computed as Follows*:

Map Quiz	10
1st Mid-Term Exam	20
2nd Mid-Term Exam	30
Final Exam	40
Total	100 points

* Note: the point distributions are somewhat tentative. They might fluctuate a little bit. For example, the 1st mid-term might be 25 points and the final 35 depending on how fast we are able to proceed. There is a total of 100 points for the course.

A	90-100
B	80-89
C	70-79
D	60-69
F	0-59

Textbooks:

Edwin S. Davis, Public Policy: The Basics, 3rd edition (Huntsville: Edsal. 2008).

Steven W. Hook, U.S. Foreign Policy: The Paradox of World Power, 2nd edition (Washington, DC: CQ Press, 2008). ISBN: 978-0-87289-466-2.

OUTLINE

weeks 1-4: Introduction: Countries Around the Globe and Basic Concepts

* Hook, Maps 1-11 (pp. xvi-xx), Table 3.2 (p. 84).

* Davis, pp. 1-7.

Map Quiz

1st Mid-Term Exam

weeks 5-7: Paradigms of American Politics; International Relations Theory

* Gary King, Robert Keohane, and Sidney Verba, Designing Social Inquiry: Scientific Inference in Qualitative Research, ch. 1, available at <http://press.princeton.edu/chapters/s5458.pdf>

* Hook, ch. 1, and pp. 64-76.

* Davis, pp. 9-20.

* Ole Holsti, "Theories of International Relations," available at: www.duke.edu/~pfeaver/holsti.pdf (62 pages).

2nd Mid-Term Exam

week 8: Structures of Public Policy (Constitution, Federalism)

* Davis, pp. 32-38.

week 9: Substance of Public Policy (Civil Liberties, Civil Rights, Right to Privacy)

week 10: The Expansion of U.S. Power

* Hook, ch 2.

week 11: Dynamics of Decision Making

* Hook, ch 3 (only pp. 76-97).

week 12: Presidential Power

* Hook, ch 4.

week 13: Congress

* Hook, ch 5

week 14: Foreign Policy Bureaucracy

* Hook, ch 6

week 15: National Security and Defense Policy

* Hook, ch 10

FINAL EXAM

Tuesday May 13, 8:00 p.m.