SAMPLE REFLECTION

Criterion: Leadership

Goal: To develop an understanding of the secretary's role in sustaining office management

Artifacts: An interview with a campus secretary [Select]

This artifact includes a campus secretary's procedures for sustaining office management. The school secretary is a vital employee with numerous duties that are essential to the daily operations of a school. Among the most significant duties performed by a campus secretary are: generating and filing staff bulletins, correspondence with district employees, and maintaining various employee records. At Huntsville Intermediate School (H.I.S.), the secretary communicates with the principal before preparing a staff bulletin. The bulletin is created, copied, and distributed by the secretary to all employees each Monday. Correspondence is another essential component of a secretary's job. A proactive, effective secretary communicates clearly to all necessary parties in a timely manner. Several forms of communication are utilized each day, including: e-mail, announcements, bulletins, and verbal; however, when the information is urgent, face-to-face, verbal communication is utilized. Finally, the secretary at H.I.S. is responsible for gathering and filing employee absence from duty forms, time sheets for supplemental work (i.e. detention), and all other significant paperwork. [Describe]

The secretary at H.I.S. is experienced and extremely well organized. Her efficiency is a prominent reason the campus functions at an exceptional level. She has set an excellent example for other campus employees to follow. [Analyze]

A proactive, effective school secretary goes beyond the duties of his/her job description. The secretary at H.I.S. demonstrates these qualities everyday. She is willing to assist each employee whenever possible, even if it requires working overtime. Her dedication to H.I.S. is unsurpassed. [Appraise]

I am supportive of the procedures utilized by the secretary at H.I.S. for sustaining office management. It is imperative that each campus secretary does everything possible to promote an organized, safe, and positive educational environment. An effective campus secretary is an essential component of an effective campus. [Transform]
